2nd "European Legal Dialogues" in Cambridge

The 2nd Sir David Williams European Legal Dialogues will take place in Wolfson College co-organized and sponsored by Wolfson College, Public Law Centre of the Faculty of Law of the University of Cambridge, Universite Bordeaux-Montesquieu, Hart Publishing, and ELGS of the EPLO on May 25, 2018. This time, it will cover the whole day and will be followed by participation to the formal dinner of the College. The theme will be "Judicial review of Administrative Action". The "Wolfson College Cambridge, Professor Sir David Williams, European Legal Dialogues" is a project directed by Professor David Feldman and Professor Spyridon Flogaitis. The Scientific Secretariat is under the responsibility of Professor George Gerapetritis.

The events shall be organized as a three hour discussion of Socratic-platonic character led and animated by the Right Honorable Lord Justice John Laws, between two distinguished lawyers, one common lawyer and one continental European lawyer, with the participation of the public where a few distinguished personalities from continental Europe and Great Britain or overseas, shall be invited to participate actively as discussants.

A Formal Dinner for registered participants will follow, as part of the College's formal dinner ceremony of the day. You can only participate in the Formal Dinner by registering. For more information please visit the event's webpage at <http://legaldialogues.eplo.int/>
